I have edited some of the pre-released audio snippets on this, and replaced them with the same song but unreleased live versions. These snippets were short, and were over video of scenery. The songs replaced were Pinball Wizard, Funeral for a Friend and Someone Saved My Life Tonight. The concert footage has not been altered. These edits were made to comply with the intent and spirit of Dime's guidelines. This does not in any way detract from the film.

This film is a documentary of Elton John's trip to Dodger Stadium for two shows on October 25th and 26th 1975. The documentary was produced for the Russell Harty Show, and originally aired over 30 years ago. The live tracks included are partial, but are very good. This was a historic event in Elton's career and is an enjoyable viewing for any Elton John fan. Enjoy.

Live Tracks:

Your Song
Bennie and the Jets
Goodbye Yellow Brick Road
