Pink Floyd - BBC Mono Master July 16, 1970 [no label 1CD yeeshkul 4708]
live at Paris Cinema, London, July 16 1970. Atom Heart Mother performed with the Philip Jones Brass Ensemble Orchestra and the John Aldiss Choir directed by John Aldiss. B'cast on John Peel's Sunday Concert. Source is BBC Sound Archive mono master. "The current torrent is the best version of the mono masters I know. It's better than the "BBC Radio One Master Reels" and HRV "Mooed Music Rev A". The spectral analysis shows full range of frequencies, and there's no sign at all of EQing or dynamic dehisssing (unlike the "BBC Radio One Master Reels", the general amount of high frequencies is constant during the full recording). And purely sonically speaking, the slight treble noise that was present on "BBC Radio One Master Reels" is not here at all. And John Peel's announcements don't have that metallic sound either. IMHO this is not the result of some cleaning process (I cannot hear any artefact), more probably from a different transfer from BBC masters, with other (better) devices. Conclusion: my preference goes for "BBC Mono Master" (the 10 track RoIO torrented here: <http://www.yeeshkul.com/forum/showthread.php?t=4708>), because of sound fidelity and absence of treble noise. - MOB.
